WINES

Ireland's History with Wine - Many people find it remarkable that Ireland should have a wine drinking tradition dating back about two thousand years. By the time Christianity came to Ireland, the Irish were already knowledgeable wine drinkers – and now they had religious reasons to drink wine! Moreover, it's a pretty safe bet that wherever wine is being made, there's an Irish hand in it. An Irish man wrote the first account of vines and wine making in North America. There are Irish winemakers in Australia, South Africa, and South America.
